COURSE OVERVIEW

This course covers the fundamentals of project management, including the triple constraint triangle, the project manager's role and the project lifecycle. It then follows the identification and design phase, covering context, needs and stakeholder analysis, theory of change and the logical framework, before moving into set up and planning activities such as governance structures, risk plans and financial plans. It addresses the implementation phase, including launching projects, the RACI matrix and tracking and adjustment, alongside monitoring and evaluation processes, data collection and progress reporting. It closes with the end-of-project transition phase and cross-cutting disciplines such as scope, time, resource and risk management.
