

Koenig receives 'Circle of Excellence' award from EC-Council

Koenig Solutions, India's leading IT training provider and the world's number one offshore training company, has been awarded the 'Circle of Excellence' award by the International Council of Electronic Commerce Consultants (EC-Council), a member-supported professional certification organization. The award was given in recognition of the company's exceptional track record in delivering EC-Council's certification programs, particularly in the Middle East and North African (MENA) region.

The 'Circle of Excellence' awards are handed out to training centres and certified instructors that epitomize the industry's best practices, while raising standards and significantly contributing to a growing body of knowledge about information security. Nominees go through a tough selection process, which is deliberated and decided on by a select panel of judges composed of key industry experts and professionals. To date, Koenig Solutions offer EC-Council certification courses like CEH V8 Training, ECSA, CHFI, ECIH, EDRP, ECSS and other prominent certifications for those who wish to gain recognition as a security expert.

"We are very humbled by this distinction from the EC-Council, which strongly recognizes our key commitment towards delivering world class high quality IT training programs," said Aditya Girish, Territory Manager – ME, Koenig Solutions. "This annual award highlights the commitment and hard work involved not only at the organization level but also at the individual level—particularly our trainers and staff who continue to strive to excel at every juncture. Koenig Solutions has been offering various EC-Council courses and certifications over the past few years and it has steadily made its way to become our leading ATC in South Asia."
